Thanksgiving is for Giving Thanks

By Margaret Sutherland

Thanksgiving is the day of the year that we eat lots of turkey and pumpkin pie.

But most of all, it's the day when we give thanks for all the things that make us feel happy.

I am thankful for my dad and mom.

They love me when I'm good.

.....and even when I'm not so good.

I am thankful for everyone else in my family.

My grandma gives really good hugs.

I am thankful for my teacher.

She makes me feel special when she hangs my artwork on the wall.

I am thankful for my friends, who make me laugh.

I am thankful for my room.

Sometimes it's nice to be by myself.

I am thankful for hot chocolate on a cold, rainy day.

I am thankful for all the dogs and cats that I know.

It's fun when they let me pet them.

I am thankful for my favorite books.

I like bedtime when Mom or Dad reads to me.

I am thankful for bright sunny days when I can play outside with my friends.

I am thankful for lollipops that turn my tongue purple...or green or orange or red or blue.

I am thankful for special days like Thanksgiving, when I'm with my whole family and we can all be thankful together.
